ATTEMPT TO WRECK TROLLEY

An attempt to wreck a car on the company Thursday evening was nearly successful. The car, which arrives at York at 10.45 o'colck, was going at a fairly good speed near Smyser's station when it ran over a dynamite shell, such as are used in quarrying and which had been laid on the track. The shock almost lifted the car from the track and wrecked the motor. The passengers were badly frightened but no one was hart. A car sent from York took all to Center Square with only 20 minutes delay.

The identity of the dynamiter is unknown but an effort will be made to trace him. Considerable damage has been done to the trolley company's property at this place, the sides of the station having been torn away and the station otherwise defaced.

The Dragon Fly. The oldest extant poem about 2 dragon fly is said to have been composed 1,440 years ago by the Emperor Yuriaku of Japan. One day, while this emperor was bunting, say the ancient records, a gadfly came and bit his arm. Therewith a dragon fly pounced upon the gadfly and devoured it. Then the emperor commanded his ministers to make an ode in praise of the dragon fly. But as they besitated how to begin he himself composed a poem in praise of the insect, ending with the Perspiration is interfered with, vorms develop, the skin becomes scaly and itchy, and the poor child is in much nisery. Do not let it go, and trust to luck or fate for a cure. Use a remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is intended to cure that very condition and s especially adapted to children's ills because of its mildness and purity. If the child has any of these symptoms, or has not had a passage in 24 hours, it needs Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at once. CAREFULLY PLANNED CRIME

Body of Woman. Missing Since February, Found Buried In Quicklime In Cellar-Accused Man and Typist

London, July 15 .- Scotland Yard cabled to the police of the United States to arrest Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, an American, the body of whose wife, also an American, was found in quicklime at their home.

The woman, as Belle Elmore, was well known on the vaudeville state. she has been missing since last Feb-

Crippen is supposed to have sailed ast Saturday for New York with his tenographer. Ethel Clara Leneve, a Frenchwoman who, the police say, was ressed as a boy.

It appears that Mrs. Crippen frequently had urged her husband to dismiss Miss Leneve, and that his reusal to dispense with the typist led often to bitter quarrels between the loctor and his wife.

The case is a striking parallel with the Charlton murder at Lake Como, Italy. In this instance, howover, the extradition treaty leaves no loophole of which a suspected criminal may take advantage.

Dr. Crippen, who is fifty years old. has made his home for some time at 39 Hilldrop Crescent, North London. The fact of her demise was generally credited, but there was more or less gossip among the woman's intimates, and this finally reached the ears of the police, who visited Dr. $1.20 Crippen. The interview appeared to be satisfactory. $1.85

> Saturday noon last Dr. Crippen disappeared, and a search of the Cripen house was made and the battered body of a woman was found buried in the cellar.

It had been placed in quicklime and was burned beyond recognition, but the finding of the body, together with other discoveries, has left no doubt in the minds of the authorities that the murdered woman was Mrs. Crip-

Before leaving Hilldrop Crescent, Dr. Crippen sent out for a boy's suit. and this the police surmise is now beng worn by his companion.

The indications point to a coolly planned murder. Early in February last a letter signed "Belle Ellmore" was received by the vaudeville artists' guild, stating that the writer had gone to America on business.

This letter, which the police say was intended to cover up a crime, furnished an evidence of criminality. Belle Elmore spelled her name with one "l." The signature affixed to the note was spelled "Ellmore."

The discrepancy was recognized and aroused suspicion among members of the guild and largely influence ed them in determining to bring the mater of the woman's strange disappearance to the notice of the police au-

SURPRISE AT SEA

It was evening in the West Indies. On a pier overlooking the ocean nearly the whole population of the town of D. were lounging, the men smoking, the women gossiping and watching the children who were romping on the heavy planks. One young fellow, a fine specimen of a man, was walking back and forth.

"Ned Chamberlin seems uneasy this evening.' "He's expecting Rose Bickford from Havana-they're engaged, you knowand that villainous picaroon to Marguerita has been reported scurrying about beyond the point there.'

At the moment a sloop rounded the point mentioned and bore steadily up to the wharf. When within hearing distance her master shouted:

"The Marguerita is chasing the Inez. We left them ten miles out, both becalmed. We caught a breeze three miles this side of them and got away." All looked at Chamberlin, for all knew that the girl he loved either had fallen or would doubtless soon fall into the hands of the pirate. He sat down on the top of one of the projecting spiles of the pier and covered his face with his hands. His neighbors thought that he was giving way to his feelings. This was not true-at least not for long. He was forming a plan to save

In another hour the Alice, the sloop that had brought the news, sailed away ing even the shadow of laxity in the under command of Ned Chamberlin. Presently the picaroon assumed the appearance of a daddy longlegs, sweeps eing thrust from her sides and she disappointed. THE HOUSE ON THE HILL

By M. QUAD Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

The house and the hill were situated in a town in the state of Ohio. The hill is there yet, but there is no house on it. Twenty years ago a stranger went to the town and bought the hill and built a frame house there. When the house was about completed he died. It was a decaying wreck when along came a Mr. Bushwick from no one knew where and bought the property for $100. As soon as he had the deed he offered it to any villager for $300 and was laughed at as weak in the top story.

Failing to effect a sale, Mr. Bushwick had the house put in repair and anvillagers knew what an observatory was. When Mr. Bushwick's telescope and tripod arrived and were set up on the veranda he permitted the villagers een years after thirty-six were turned to have a look-not at the heavens, but loose 100,000 were shot. But some es- at the earth. They could almost see the houseflies in the town beneath

> "Gentlemen," said Mr. Bushwick when all was ready, "the price of this property is $400. It will increase $100 per week until sold."

Of course he was loony, but so long as he appeared harmless the people would only laugh at him. The first one to make a discovery was a Mr. Graham. He was an old man, and he had an old wife. They were always wrangling, more or less. When they had wrangled about so long each time he would box her ears. Two days after the "observatory" had been established and as the old couple sat on the piazza of their house a wrangle took place. After a bit the husband looked around, and, seeing no one passing, ne administered a cuff. A moment later he happened to look up on the bill and saw that the telescope was trained upon him. If there was any doubt that Mr. Bushwick had seen that cuff inflicted it was dispelled by the waving of a small white flag.

Elder Thompson was a good man, a very good man, as all elders should be and are. He was sitting in his back yard under an apple tree, thinking how good and peaceful and nice it was to be real good, when a bumblebee came along and lifted him once for his mother's sake. After coming good to eat. Food was not supplied, down from his high jump the elder and they died. Those accustomed to broke down a young cherry tree, tore down a panel of the fence and ran his whose habitat was plains with bushy dog into the house. It was no more than a good man should do, but when he looked up and saw that accusing telescope and white flag he felt hurt and conscience stricken.

A dozen other things of the kind then the citizens decided that an observatory was unlawful. They consuited a lawyer, and he smiled at them, He told them the town could be surrounded by observatories and not conflict with any law. Then it was thought best to make up a shake purse and buy Mr. Bushwick out. "Gentlemen," said the telescope man when they approached him on the subject, "the price of this property is $500. Take it or leave it."

"But you have no right to be spying on our homes," was reterted.

"There is no spying. I am simply surveying the earth before me. If any of you happen to come within my range of vision I cannot help it. I do not think I shall write a book on what I see. I may, but do not think so."

The citizens refused to pay the sum named and went down the hill to their nomes, while Mr. Bushwick returned to his post and his telescope. One of the residents of the village was an old maid named Miss Saunderson. She had a home of her own. She was fond of strolling in her garden. A Mr. Blossom, who lived next door, was fond of leaning over the line fence and quoting poetry to her. His wife had warned him to stop it or she would quote something to him, but on a certain afternoon he forgot the warning and was repeating "Sheridan's Ride" to Miss Saunderson when there came a wife. a club and a cataclysm. The telescope took it all in. The white flag waved joyously. Dozens of people saw it wave and went bunting for the cause, and there was some more to talk about. Two or three days later a committee climbed the hill with $500 in its hind pocket and told Mr. Bushwick to take it and get out.

"Gentlemen, I am sorry if you have been put to any trouble," he kindly replied, "but the figure on the property is $600. You see, a sort of real estate boom has set in."

The committee bemmed and hawed and refused to pay. Two days after that the report spread that the observatory man was going to have a night as well as a day glass-a glass that would almost see through a pine door. Then there was a hustle. Three men took up the task of collecting. Oh, no; Don't place too many hens with a they were not afraid of the day glass or the night glass or any other kind Don't set dirty eggs in machine or of glass, but it would be a great improvement to the landscape to remove the house on the hill and set out some pine trees there. When they went up to see Mr. Bushwick again he wanted $700, but, seeing it was they and seeing they wanted to better the landscape, he would throw off $50 and get out. In three days he was gone, and the sigh of relief that went up was heard all over Loraine county. Things do happen yet in that town, but the world never hears of them.

ADAMS COUNTY HARVEST HOME PICNIC

AT ISLAND GROVE PARK, BOILING SPRINGS, PA. THURS. JULY 28 The management has this year decided to hold the Harvest Home Picnic at Island Grove Park instead of Mt. Holly Springs, for the following reasons: This Park contains thirty seven acres of shaded grove, fine boating, twelve boats, one large boat running from the Park to Boiling Springs every half hour carrying from fifty to sixty passengers, merry-go-round, swings, large dancing floor, hotel and restaurant. The Island Grove Park is centrally located being accessible by steam and trolley to Carlisle, Mechanicsburg, Dillsburg, and Harrisburg. Among the entertainments will be addresses by ministers of various Sunday Schools who have been invited, and by eminent public speakers in the afternoon. A baseball game between two leading teams of the County, Band Concerts during the entire day. Arrangements have been made to reserve coaches for the Primary Sunday School children. Plenty of shelter in case of rain. "Can't tell you, sir," replied the pert and the warded or forgotten the rest at, "but I'm the one who gets all of the work."
